FARMERS
TRY THE
Star Bone Phosphate.
TO all agriculturists, therefore, who are in search of an active and permanent manure, and who may have the claims of this article presented to their notice for the first time, the manufacturers would suggest, that the
is worthy of their experimental trial, at least; past experience warranting the fullest confidence, that after a trial they will add their testimony to that of hundreds of farmers who now regard it as the cheapest and best manure in the market.
THE AMMONIA
is supplied abundantly from the organic portion of the bone.

A Word to the Wise!
HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO FARMERS!
Renner's Chemical Fertilizer!
THE importance of a quick, active and durable Fertilizer, adapted to the soil of our county, is acknowledged by all Farmers. Having satisfied myself, after long study and careful experiment, that F. O. RENNER'S
Chemical Fertilizer
surpasses all others in adaptedness to all kinds of soil, I have purchased the right for Adams county, and am prepared to fill orders for it promptly and on reasonable terms. It is no humbug, but HAS BEEN SUCCESSFULLY TRIED by a number of our Farmers, and is admitted by all who have it to be the best in the market, and the cheapest. I am prepared to furnish this Fertilizer in any quantity, and will deliver
In any town or village in the County, when ordered in not less quantity than a TON. I manufacture it for sale at $50 per ton without bags, or $55 in bags. This fertilizer is composed of the best fertilizing chemicals that can be had. I use no oil of vitriol; it does not contain any ammonia, therefore I do not use it. Neither do I use lime nor ashes.
THE OBJECT OF THE CHEMICAL FERTILIZER is to introduce a fertilizer that will last for a series of crops—not only for one. It contains sufficient animal matter to mature the grain and make it ripen early, while the ammonia forces the growth. I expect to manufacture large supply this winter for the spring crop and therefore invite farmers and the public generally to give it a trial on all kinds of Grains and Vegetables.
CAUTION.—I hereby give notice that Farm Rights hereafter sold unlicensighed by me, are infringements on my Right, and will be prosecuted and dealt with according to law, from which there is no appeal.

SMILE AND BE CONTENTED.

The world grows old, and men grow cold
To each while seeking treasure,
And what with want, and care and toil,
We scarce have time for pleasure;
But never mind, that is a loss
Not much to be lamented;
Life rolls on gaily, if we will,
But smile and be contented.

If we are poor and would be rich,
It will not be by pining;
No; steady hearts and hopeful minds
Are life's bright silvery lining,
There's never a man that dared to hope,
Hath of his choice repented;
The happiest soul on earth are those
Who smile and be contented.

When grief doth come to rack the heart
And fortune bids us sorrow,
From hope we may a blessing read,
And consolation borrow;
If thorns may rise and roses bloom,
It cannot be prevented;
So make the best of life you can,
And smile and be c ntente l.

A FIGHT WITH A WILD LION.

The entertainment was called upon the bills a Great Moral Exhibition; and as, with the circus, it combined a menagerie to which the Asian jungles and African deserts had contributed, clergymen and others were cordially invited to witness the trained lion and the lamb lying down together, and particularly to inspect the pictures upon the flaps of the various stages, which were nothing less than scenes from the Holy Scriptures, constituting, on the whole, an Illustrative Bible Show.

Of the performance, of which I am particularly speaking, the last item had been described in the advertisement as the "Terrible Exploits of Bartouro in the Den of Wild Beasts;" the capitals had been thrilling. Accordingly, after a sufficient quantity of little boys had been thrown by the horses, an enormous carriage, that filled nearly half the space, was slowly wheeled upon the scene, the sides were let down, and the Den of Wild Beasts was disclosed.

It was in three compartments, with strong partitions made of lattice-work of iron bars between them. In the first one, some leopards and a Bengal tiger of lothly beauty were roaming restlessly round, up and down, in and out, round and about, in a way to make one's heart ache. In the central compartment a lion was striding up and down, lashing his tail about; while his lioness, lying in one corner with her two whelps fawning around her, looked with complacent curiosity at the crowd who returned her gaze. But when the lids were let down from the last compartment, all thought of the occupants of the other two was for a moment forgotten, as the immense and single lion within that one sprang upon his hind legs, pawing at the side of the cage as if he would break through and bound out upon us, and uttering simultaneously a roar that resounded and reverberated from side to side and made every heart stand still.

We were almost decorously placed on the tiers of seats, but at the sound and the sight the whole audience shook a little closer together; and for my part, never liking such scenes as this promised to be, I had risen to go.

"Never mind," said my companion to me as I excitedly signified my wish to hasten off; "it is a trifling thing enough—the creatures are gorged with food and dandled from their birth; the exhibitor is in no danger."

"You are mistaken, sir," said one of the group of bystanders. "In the first two cages they are certainly tame enough; but the last beast is the true Nemean, raging for his liberty, ready to spend a man to atoms as ever his wildest ancestor was."

"Then why is he in that cage, sir?" I asked, shivering beneath the blaze of those eyeballs like coals.

"He was only added to the collection a few hours since," said another gentleman at my side. "Some sailors brought him home on their own account; the ship happened to arrive in harbor this morning, just as the menagerie was setting up its tent; the sailors lost no time in making their bargain, and the animal was transferred immediately; but an injury happening to his own cage, he was temporarily shut into this one, till better accommodations could be arranged, I believe."

"Oh, without doubt."

"And then the exhibitor does not venture into that compartment?"

"Not unless he is insane, I fancy."

'Oh, what a roar! It is thunder's self!"

"Possibly he is not been fed to-day."

"I think we had better go," I said. "It really makes me ill."

"No, indeed," was the response I me with. "If there is going to be anything unusual, let us have the benefit of it!"

"But it seems to me the exhibitor is not ready; I do believe he is afraid himself."

"He has no occasion," said the second bystander again. "In spite of our friend's opinion of the best, unless the exhibitor should open the door of the third cage, there is absolutely not a shadow of dangar."

"And if he should?"

"Why then I imagine he would get his deserts!",

"The lion would at any rate," rejoined my companion.

"Oh, how nervous you make me," I exclaimed, "I wonder why the dauntless Bartouro does not come?"

"Possibly he is asleep," said the second bystander once more; "he has a little habit, they say, which occasions drowsiness—I suppose so hazardous an occupation as his may have, in the beginning, required stimulants, and he has abused the necessity. And if they are not sobering him with bucketsful of cold water dashed over him, they are probably helping him to hurry on his tights and spangles."

As he spoke, a man carrying a little switch bounded into the ring, made his bow to the audience, threw open the cage of the leopards, leaped lightly up, and in an instant had shut himself within. He was a man of splendid physical development; and so quick had been his three movements, that one had not time to see his flushed face and its swollen veins before it seemed that the exertion of seizing the leopard and tossing him into the air had occasioned it.

"What a handsome fellow!" cried my companion. "What shoulders! what a forearm! His neck is a white column; it is the torso of a hero. Was he put together in that splendid way, I wonder, for nothing else than to play with kittens?"

He was a picture as he fronted us; the two leopards stood with a paw on either shoulder, the spots seeming to waver in their supple sides like the sparks and glows in half blackened fire-brands, while the tiger bounded to and fro over the switch he held for him, as if his sleek curves were made of nothing but cousinhood. It was plain that the creatures loved the man as they reached out their long rough tongues and licked him—he had fed them and tended them, and was to them their only visible Providence.

As I thought thus, Bastouro flung aside the first partition of iron bars, with a thrust, and was in the central cage, stepping quickly to the lioness and switching her till she rose upon her feet, catching the little cubs in his arms, and throwing them about like juggler's balls, calling the lion to his side and lying down between them all, as if for peaceful repose in the bosom of his family. Meanwhile the tiger came and stretched himself at his feet, and one of the leopards amused himself with boxing an impertinent little cub, while another leopard retired to the farthest corner of the cage, and appeared to keep watch like a sentinel over the domestic scene. It was, after all a charming sight; and the place rang with plaudits.

Suddenly, the Dauntless Bartouro sprang to his feet, bowed again to the audience, stepped and threw open the partition. My tongue clave to the roof of my mouth with horror; the whole amphitheatre hung upon one breath. The three sentiments were now a single cage alone—lost the animals in the first portion hurridly huddled themselves together in the remotest part, cowering and whining and trembling abjectly.

But with a magnificent fearlessness, Bartouro trod swiftly towards the lion, who still stood erect, holding by his tremendous paws to the side of the cage, his huge black mane rising and bristling around him as if instinct with savage life itself, while he turned his head at the clang of the bars, and glared with red hot eyes upon Bartouro.

"Come back! For God's sake come back!" cried the ring-master, darting across the arena towards the cage. "It is the lion, wild from the woods. You are a dead man!"

The whole audience rose. Oh, the cruel hand-some faces of those dead and gone Roman woman! these were not their ghosts. But Bartouro did not vouchsafe him a glance—only he trod swiftly forward, and struck the beast a tingling blow in the face.

It was the death blow of courage. The lion, amazed for one heart-beat, with the next did not pause to crouch ere springing, but had thrown himself in one mass upon Bartouro, who had tottered and fell, but rose again, and lifted his arms, that were like springs of steel, to thrust the beast away. Then as if lightning fell, the arms dropped powerless, the man sank slowly down, his eyes wide open and staring on the lion, his face whiter than ashes, the blood pouring along his side in a scarlet torrent.

Women were fainting now in the audience, children were shrieking, men were springing forward; the people of the managerie were running to get some weapon, an axe, a pistol, anything; there was not one who dared to enter the cage and snatch his prey from the dreadful thing which would devour it before our very eyes for all we knew, and which dragged it a few steps, and then settled himself upon it with a growl like the rumble of an earthquake—while Bartouro gazed up at him, the color now of a corpse long dead, and utterly paralyzed and insensible alike to pain or terror in the lethargy of the beast's benumbing stroke.

All at once, in that breathless instant, a ball of fire shot through the air from one end of the cage to the other. It was the leopard, who had sat sentinel. In a moment his mate had followed. One had no time to denote their superb beauty, nor to wonder at their furious spring, before the tiger had buried himself after them, and all three had fallen with a yell on the lion, who tore his claws away, and half forgot Bartouro to turn on them.

Whether it was love of their master, or whether some forest scent, still lingering about the wild beasts, had roused the never before awakened rage of their blood, no one can say; there were giving their lives for Bartouro—so much was certain.

And Bartouro lay there and looked at them, and now that he was free, forgot to stir, or could not. The people were shouting to him to save himself; their voices seemed to reach him like mere echoes, a dozen miles away; he neither moved nor rose. His own lion came and lent over him caressingly, his long mane sweeping across Bartouro; but at his touch, as if some glimmer of sense returned in a sudden flash, Bartouro must have felt that the animal should not lap away, however, innocently at first, the blood that was streaming down his own sides; and he pushed him off and sprang to his feet. With that he was a man again—a sober man, too, in one sense; but in another sense more mad with rage than he had ever been before with liquor—for he, Bartouro, the lion-tamer, had been struck to the earth, in the face of all men, by his own creatures.

"Come out—come out!" we cried, in one voice. "Oh, you are mad, Bartouro!"

He did not deign us a look; but his voice rose over the snarl, and roar, and cry, of the struggling beasts, and over the uproar awakened in neighboring cages, like a blast of wind, "And leave my leopards to die?"

In a moment he had darted forward, the helpless arm dangling from his shoulder, but his right hand grasping his whip; and as the lion, turning at the side glance which he caught of his first assailant, regardless of leopards or tigers, shook them off with a mighty shudder, and collected himself for a second leap upon him, Bartouro ran up with his whip, and suddenly, with the precision of a marksman, he had flecked its thong first in one eye of the lion, and then the other, slipped aside as the loin rose on its spring with a yell of pain and agony and fell sprawling and rolling over, striking against the iron sides of the cage, gathering itself together again, and crouching as still as the sphynx.

Another ray of light never entered those throng-flecked eyes—the lion was stone blind from that day.

The whole scene had not occupied three minutes. At its close, Bartouro caught his torn leopards and tossed

THE COPPERHEADS AND THE BATTLE-FIELD.

Our Copperhead friends are very unhappy over the defeat of Jeff. Davis, the abolition of Slavery, the success of Congressional Reconstruction, and the approaching triumph of the great idea of the Revolutionary era, the equality of all men before the law. Nothing goes right in their eyes. Indeed nothing has gone right since Buchanan left the White House and the Southern Democrats were prevented from dividing and destroying the Nation.

Their disposition to growl and fret has taken various forms. During the war, it took the form of helping the enemy indirectly, rejoicing over Rebel victories, and glibly proclaiming the impossibility of conquering so brave and gallant a people as their "Southern brethren." Since the war, it has taken the form of resisting Reconstruction on a loyal basis which would give protection and power to the loyal men of the South. "It demands compensation for damages sustained in the North from the war, but stupidly and stoutly resists all confiscation of the property of Rebels to get the means to pay the damages. It grumbles at Republicans for not paying the damages, but objects to every reasonable proposition to raise the money therefor.

Its latest and smallest specimen of spite is in the objections by correspondent of the Compiler to the Government making an accurate measurement of our great Battle-field. We can understand why Copperheads should be unwilling to have the remembrance of this Battlefield preserved. It is a daily offence to them. It reminds them of a pro-Slavery Democratic Rebellion defeated. It reminds them of a National Democratic Party betrayed, beaten, and disgraced. It is prophetic of the progressive growth of the cause of Liberty here and everywhere. And it is a perpetual monument to the faithlessness and treason of the Democratic Party to whom the people blindly committed their government.

Now, these reasons all go to account for Democratic malignity towards the Battle-field, the decoration of Soldiers' Graves, and all that. But they are reasons which have impelled the Government to desire to preserve this sacred spot. AND THIS WILL BE DONE, Democratic grumbling to the contrary notwithstanding.

The survey complained of was begun last fall, stopped by the winter, and will be finished this summer. It really involves no expense, as only regular officers and troops are employed, who would be on duty, in any event, somewhere. These gentlemen are performing their duty with as little inconvenience as possible to land-holders, and we have heard no complaints except from the class who have accustomed themselves to hating everything inspired by patriotism. The citizen who objects to the slight annoyance involved in procuring an accurate measurement of the Battle-field, only shows how incapable he is of appreciating the great blessings which the victory on that field has secured for him. Let us hope that his children, at least, may prove less unmindful of their duty to the country, and less indisposed to sacrifice something, if need be, to the general good.

THE XVTH AMENDMENT.

The XVth or Suffrage Amendment of the National Constitution will undoubtedly be adopted. The Southern Democracy are supporting it, as the only end of the long-agitated Slave question. The Virginia Democrats, in their State Convention last week, indicated a purpose to ratify it in the legislature to be elected in a few months. Gen. announced that Gen. Robert E. Lee favors it, and that he does not believe that the enfranchisement of the negroes will work such prodigious harm as has been predicted by some men North and South.

An exchange says that "there is a large and influential segment of the ex-rebels of Virginia who have about made up their minds to act hereafter with the great Republican party. They are composed mainly of men who belonged to the old Whig party and voted against secession, but were engulfed by the rebellion when it broke out, went with their State from State pride, and fought fiercely and desperately for the 'lost cause.' These men have bitterly lamented and repented their folly, and they now wish to place themselves once more in sympathy and co-operation with the great Union party of the country. The Copperhead desire to defeat the Fifteenth Amendment will receive no assistance from these old Whigs of former days. They will throw their whole weight into the scale in behalf of its prompt ratification by their State; and their votes, added to those of the white and colored Radicals, will secure an overwhelming majority for it in the Old Dominion."

We believe that 95 out of every 100 voters in Virginia, without distinction of party, are in favor of the Fifteenth Amendment, and will so vote at the ensuing election. The Richmond Whig, the organ of the old Whigs, "pours hot shot" into the Northern Democracy after the following style:

"They meanly appeal to a crushed, bleeding and broken hearted people to sacrifice the last feeble remnants of their political and social existence, in order that they (the Northern Democracy) may be saved from the operations of the Fifteenth Amendment. Nothing more shameful has occurred in these days of degeneracy and profligacy."

IN CALIFORNIA, the Copperhead papers are making a fierce fight against the Chinese. As there are but 4,000 or 5,000 Africans there, and probably 40,000 Asiatics, the Copperheads think more capital is to be made out of agitation over the latter, than over the former class. Hence they have ceased to talk about the "heel, shinbone, forearm, cerebrum, cerebellum, and other anatomical peculiarities of the African race," and have betaken themselves to researches into the physical, mental and moral condition of the Mongolians. A crusade against the latter class is now in progress, characterized by all the brutality and knavery of which Copperhead politicians are capable. And the Copperheads are happy, because their happiness consists in trying to crush the weak and poor and friendless. Were the Chinese in California aristocrats instead of poor laborers, Copperheads would "curry favor with them." As it is, they seek to degrade and outlaw them. Such is the devilish spirit of that party, everywhere—the result of its long sympathy with Slavery.

RE-CONSTRUCTION—DAY-LIGHT AHEAD.

The problem of Re-construction bids fair to be definitely settled this fall, and that in the interest of Right and Justice. The Democratic party in the South are apparently waking up to the conviction that they have been pursuing a suicidal policy in following out the counsels of their Democratic allies in the North. The latter contributed largely to precipitate the Rebellion by fierce invectives against the Republican party, urging the South to defend their rights, and assuring them that in case of War, it should be on Northern, but on Southern soil. Under the inspiration of these counsels the South inaugurated Secession and Rebellion, and during four long years reaped their bloody fruits—carnage, desolation, death and ruin. The War ended and the great crime of Human Slavery blotted out, the Government, under Republican administration, magnanimously proposed to forgive and forget the crime of Rebellion, upon the simple condition that the logical results of the war should be recognized, by incorporating into the organic law of the Republic a provision asserting the abolition of Slavery, and by enactments securing personal and civil rights to all men. Not a word about negro suffrage. But the Democracy of the North counselled a refusal of these magnanimous terms—denounced the War, and made profuse promises of the great things they would accomplish if the South would only abide their time. Thus advised the Rebel element contemptuously spurned the liberal terms offered them, and announced their purpose to secure by the ballot what they failed to secure by the bullet. The loyal men of the nation took up the challenge, again and again at the polls asserted their determination that the fruits of the War should not be lost, and that Reconstruction must be consummated in the interest of Freedom. The White Rebel element of the South having sullenly refused all terms, Congress was compelled to turn to the loyal Blacks, who during the War had stood by the flag, befriended our soldiers, and finally shouldered the musket in defence of the Republic. And thus it came about that Negro Suffrage was invoked as a necessary element in reconstructing the Rebel States on a loyal basis—thanks to the Democracy of the North and their misguided Rebel adherents of the South.

The final issue was made in last November, with a result as fatal to the new Rebel programme, as that which followed the struggle around Appomattox Court-house. The fruits of this last and final discomfiture of Secession and Rebellion are being now developed all through the South. Southern journals, which have hitherto been content to tread the path prescribed by Northern Democrats, now pronounce for a political divorce and denounce their Northern allies as their worst enemies, to whom the South is largely indebted for all its misfortunes. Realizing the hopelessness of a further struggle against the dominant party in the Republic, they seem disposed to accept the situation, swallow the dose prescribed for them by Gen. GRANT and a Republican Congress, negro suffrage and all, and get back into the Union as quick as possible.

In the unreconstructed States of Mississippi, Texas and Virginia, we have a remarkable development of this new tendency. The leading Democratic organ in Texas lays down the following programme:

"Our position in the present canvass will be—

To throw the whole responsibility of reconstruction upon the Republican party of Texas.

And to this end we urge upon the Democratic party—

First—To aid and assist the moderate men of the Republican party in restoring the State to the Union, upon a basis that will be acceptable to the President and Congress.

Second—To vote unanimously for the constitution which they have offered us.

Third—To hold no party conventions and make no nominations whatever as a party for office.

Fourth—To meet the moderate Republicans in council whenever and wherever invited by them, and in all instances to concede what they will not yield."

But it is in Virginia—proud, conservative, slave-breeding Virginia, the "mother of Presidents," the boasted residence of the F. F. V's of the R-public, and the most stubborn in her resistance to the new order of things—that we find the most significant indications of the changing tendencies of parties. The "Conservative" Convention, recently in session at Richmond, has declined to nominate candidates, and recommended the support of Mr. WALKER, Republican, who is running for Governor against WELLS the regular nominee. Both wings of the Republican organization, whether supporting WELLS or WALKER, claim to support the administration of General GRANT, and quarrel as to which are his real representatives. Each profess to accept the situation, to favor negro suffrage and the ratification of the Fifteenth Constitutional Amendment. The Richmond Whig—which is the chief organ of the Walker wing, and about equally opposed to the Republican and the Democratic, or as it chooses to call itself, Conservative party—referring to the new Reconstruction bill in connection with the Fifteenth Amendment, says:

"The decree has gone forth—and there is no stopping its execution—that suffrage shall be universal. President GRANT is pledged to it, Congress is pledged to it, the Chief Justice of the United States is pledged to it, and it is inevitable. We have negro suffrage without the elections we would have with it, and the only effect will be to fix it upon the Northern and Western States."

The Whig goes on to show that the pursuance of a refractory course by the enemies of the Republican party in Virginia can only result in giving the control of the State to the "radicals" for years to come, and alienate the confidence and respect of the best men of the nation. Some few of the more ultra Democrats, led by the Enquirer, cling to the "lost cause" and sullenly stand aloof from the new movement, but they are the fossil representatives of a past political age and will be lost sight of in the breaking up of party lines and re-organization of parties.—Even HENRY A. WISE, who hung JOHN BROWN at Harper's Ferry, accepts the situation and thus delivers himself:

"The long agitation of the question of slavery, its history before the war, and the war itself, convinced me that an exodus from African bondage was obliged to be by the almighty hand of Providence. God knew what poor finite minds North and South did not foresee—that nothing short of fire and sword, of war and its blood and violence, could emancipate negro slaves on this continent, in a country governed as the United States, in the form of constitutional republics bound together by a constitutional union. By no steps in formal times could Congress ever have abolished slavery; and the States would never have commenced emancipation by peaceful means, gradual or otherwise, for reasons which it would be irritating now to state. It is sufficient to say that you many in the South fought for nothing but the right of property in slaves, and it is time that the North was informed that by far the most respectable portion of the southern people fought for something far more precious than the legal privilege of being the masters of slaves. They fought for the more glorious privilege of self government. They were willing to emancipate slaves in their own time and own way, but were not willing to allow Congress to regulate their domestic government and concerns for them, either as to slavery or anything else. Thus there were double restraints against emancipation, which could not be removed in time to prevent either dissolution of the Union or civil war. The war was a national necessity permitted by Divine Providence to prevent (in the end, I hope,) greater evils than the war itself."

The ex-Governor grows pious and argues that the Almighty "ordered, directed and forced the result of emancipation of slaves in America," because there was no other way of bringing it about. He, therefore, who resists, or in any unreasonable way obstructs the legitimate consequences of this special Providence, "kicks against the pricks." He then joins with GRANT in making an earnest call for peace:

"The old strifes must cease and be hushed. Next, charity, toleration, brotherly and patriotic kindness. It is not for me to upbraid you, or you me, for the offences and injuries of the war. Slavery was its cause, was our weakness if nor our wicke-ness, and God has purged out its sin and satanic influence by fire and blood. His fire and blood, for the war was His if the sin was mine. But woe unto those, on either side, who shall cause the fires to burn and the blood to beat after the sin and causes of woes have been burned to ashes. We must not keep the fires ignited—the ashes must be allowed to cool, and then, as from battle fields, the green herbage may be made to grow more luxuriant than ever; and good fruit may be made to spring even from the cinders and ashes of this horrid war."

Verily the work goes bravely on, when HENRY A. WISE and his confreres turn out Apostles of Freedom.—Once more we remark, the War for the suppression of the Rebellion has been a wonderful educator, and his Excellency has proven himself an apt pupil.

Twenty-one States have already adopted the 15th Constitutional Amendment. Connecticut, Rhode Island, Vermont and New Hampshire will bring the number up to 25, leaving Virginia, Texas and Mississippi to close up the requisite number to make Manhood Suffrage part and parcel of the organic law of the Republic—with Florida, Georgia, Ohio, Indiana, California and Oregon to spare! The decade of 1860–70 will be a memorable era in our national politics. Within that period the Republic "will have passed from Slavery national in power to Freedom universal in fact; from Dred Scottism, proclaiming the negro debarred from citizenship, to suffrage declared in the organic law to be the right of manhood, without regard to color, race or previous condition; from secession and civil war to union and peace enduringly founded upon equal rights, and cemented in the hearts of the people."

We clip the following paragraph from an editorial of the Pottsville Miners' Journal of the 1st inst.:

"The present week the senior editor of the Miners' Journal entered upon the forty first year of his publication of the paper. He is now the oldest political editor in the State, no other person to his knowledge having been connected continuously for a period of forty years with one newspaper."

Pottsville is quite a town, and the Miners' Journal a capital paper; but we object to Pottsville robbing Gettysburg of the honors of seniority in editorial life, which of right belongs to our esteemed colleague, ROBERT G. HARPER. The Miners' Journal was established in 1824, and purchased by its present editor in 1829, who has thus been in the editorial harness for 40 years. The Adams Sentinel was established in 1800 by the father of the senior editor of this paper, the latter taking charge of it in 1816, upon the death of his father, and continuing as sole editor and proprietor until May, 1867, when the Sentinel was consolidated with the Star, under the present firm, of which Mr. HARPER is the senior member. Our colleague has therefore been in continuous editorial life for 53 years—51 years as sole editor of the same paper, the Adams Sentinel —just 13 years longer than the Journal claims for its editor.

BRICK POMEROY, with all his Rebel hate and vendictiveness, can't stand the villainy of New York politics, and has opened his batteries on the Democratic leaders of that city. He says:—"If buying and selling, if fraud and corruption, if double-dealing, trickery, dishonesty, and nothing but a love for gain, is to mark the course of the leading Democrats of New York, I just ask God to spare my life for the next two years."

THE late session of the Legislature passed a Registry Law—or rather two of them—one for the city of Philadelphia, and one for the rest of the State. We will publish the latter in full in our next issue.

OGDEN.—Of this new town on the Pacific Railroad, the point of junction of the two roads, a correspondent of the St. Louis Republican writes:—"Ogden is about to become the commercial city of the Rocky Mountains. The greatest activity now prevails at the point. When I left workmen were busy putting up a siding or switch, and the work of transferring goods, materials, tools, boxes, bundels, bales, barrels, &c., was going on as though the people were making preparations for an earthquake. Restaurant keepers, peddlers, traders, gamblers, loafers, rowdies, "deadbeats," merchants, mechanics, blacksmiths, carpenters, seemed to be running a race to see which could get away from the switch at Taylor's mill the quickest."

LIABILITY OF RAILROAD COMPANIES.—A case of much importance to the public, and particularly to railroad companies, was determined before Judge Taylor, in the Common Pleas of Huntingdon county, last week. In April, 1868, a warehouse took fire from the sparks of a locomotive at Mill Creek, which was consumed, setting fire to an adjoining hotel, which, with most of its contents, was also destroyed. Suits were brought by all the parties injured, but all were amicably compromised, except that of Mr. Kerr, the occupant of the hotel, on which the parties went to trial, and after a contest of three days the jury awarded $1,960.

It is expected that the figures for the present month will make an even more gratifying exhibit.

FLORICULTURE is beginning to receive attention in Iowa. The Keokuk Gate City says: "Mr. Rose married Miss Violet at Winterset, last week. There is a flower bed for you. That Rose may reasonably expect to be a poppy—in time."

OUR Government will not reply to General Roscrans' despatches, and whatever the Administration may have to say will be through our new Minister, General Nelson, who will soon leave for Vera Cruz, expecting to arrive there before June.

THERE is no truth in the report that President Grant sent for Robert E. Lee, and had a long conversation with him about reconstruction and suffrage. The visit was brief, and the weather, Virginia railroads, and crops, were the only topics of conversation.

A THREE-STORY brick house, eighteen by forty feet, and in the consturction of which 42,350 bricks were used, was built in Lancaster, Pa., last week, in nineteen and a half hours, and persons were living in it within three days from the time it was commenced.

JOHN G. SAXE was walking up Broadway the other day when he was accosted by a friend, who asked where he was bound.—The poet replied: "To Boston this afternoon, Deo volente." "What's that?" asked the inquirer. "By way of Providence, of course."

THE ALABAMA CLAIMS.—Upon the authority of "gentlemen who made special and private inquiries in official circles" it is stated that Minister Motley's official instructions do not suggest any mode of adjusting the Alabama claims question at present or propose the reopening of the negotiations with the English Government. The subject is to be left in abeyance, while the American side is to be firmly presented to Her Majesty's Government when occasion shall require. No one connected with the Administration, nor the British Minister, apprehends any injurious consequences from the rejection of the former treaty by the Senate.

GENERAL Robert E. Lee made a brief visit to President Grant at the White House in Washington on Saturday morning, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Taggart, of Baltimore. NASBY.

The Corners Outraged—The Guillotine at work—Capt. M'Pelter Decapitated and a Nigger made Assessor in his Place.

POST OFFIS, CONFEDERIT X ROADS, (Wich is in the Stait uv Kentucky,) April 9, 1869.

Ef the Dimocrisy uv the North arn't satisfied by this time that the ultimate intenshen uv the Ablishnists is to subjoogate em and reduce em to the level uv the Nigger, the voice uv one risin from the dead wouldn't avail nohin. Yesterday the last outrage which a chivalrous people has been compelled to bear, wuz perpetrated onto a citizen uv the Corners. A Nigger is now an offis-holder at the Corners! I shel state the case calmly:

The posishen uv Assessor uv Internal Revenoo for the Deestrick uv wich the Corners is the centre, hez bin held sence A. Johnson bez bin President by Captain Hugh McPelter, late uv Morgan's Cavalry, C. S. A. That he bez filled the posishen to the satisfaction uv the citizens uv the Corners, no one denies. He is a distiller, in fact he and Elder Pennibacker run the two distilleries in town, and they hev did a thrivin bisinis. McPelter wuz Assessor and Pennibacker Collector, and ez a consekence none uv the capital uv the Corners hez bin substracted and carried to Washington to feed the Ablishen theeves there. Ez no tax has ever bin paid on the whisky at this place, Bascom hez bin enabled to continyoo to sell it at five cents per drink, while everywhere else the regler price is ten and fifteen. There wuz other advantages in havin the Assessorship and Collectorship in their hands. By simply hintin to em that it wuz my dooty ez a Fedral offis holder to investigate their modes uv doin the Government biznis, I hev not only bin the happy recipient uv scores uv two-gallon jugs, but I hev bin enabled, at divers and sundry times, to prokoor loans uv em uv various amounts, the lowest bein $1.75, and the highest reachin $20.

This happy condishun uv affairs is bustid. Gabriel Batcock, a nigger—that is a half nigger, formerly the property of Deekin Pogram, and who looks enuff-like the Deekin's oldest son Jehiel to be his half brother, waz last week appinted, and confirmed Assessor in the place of Capt. McPelter, and imejitly he entered onto the discharge uv his dooties.

There are many feechers pekoolyerly aggravatin in the appointment. To begin with, this Babcock wuz notoriously obnoxyus to the Corners doorin the late onpleasantnes. At the beginning thereof he run away from Deekin Pogram and entered the Fedral servis. He wuz pertikerly activ and cussid. His knowledge uv the country made him yooseful to the Fedral officers ez a guide and scout, and at least one Fedral victry is chargeable direct to the information he brot. Then his wife wuz known to hev hid five Fedral soljers who had escaped from Andersonville. When he finally fell into the hands uv Capt. McPelter at Fort Pillow kin it be wondered at that he wuz left for dead? or kin it be wondered at that the people uv the Corners wuz surprized when he appeared among em at the close uv the war with one leg off and one arm stiff? Not much. Capt. McPelter wuzn't in the habit uv halt doin his work, and the appearance uv this nigger who had passed through his hands ruther astonished the Captain.

Doorin his absence he hed learned to read and write, and he wuz made a teacher in the Freedmen's Skool wich wuz est ab isht in this place, and now he is Assessor, with Pollock on his bond.

Ez a matter uv course we despair uv the Republic. Wat freedom kin there be for us with a nigger in offiabel posishen to tyranize over us? Wat man uv culcher, uv edjucashen, uv refinement, kin afford to live in a community where a disgustin mulattoo is made not only our ekal, but our sooperior?

Deekin Pogram said this indignantly to Joe Bigler, who immejitly askt the Deekin whether or not he didn't count Babcock's mother his ekal thirty years ago? Wich question, wich wuz askt in the presence uv the Deekin's wife, who bez a temper, wuz the occasion uv severe remarks between the worthy pair. Joe Bigler delites in openin old sores.

The first act uv this Babcock in his offishel capassity wuz the shuttin up uv McPelter's and Pennibacker's distilleries, and Bascom's bar, on the skore that none uv em had never taken out licenses, or even paid any taxes! Ther wuz the most terrific ebullishin uv feelin at this act uv tyranny that it hez ever bin my lot to witness.

"Kill the d—d nigger!"

"Hang the black cuss!"

"Down with the Afrikin despot!"

Shouted the enfuriated citizens. With a refinement uv crooelty wich could only be the offspring uv a most depraved and vishus mind, he shut up these places at 7 o'clock in the mornin, before one uv the citizens hed hed his mornin bitters! Hed he postponed it an hour we might hev fought it out, for some one else would hev prokoored a supply before noon, and things wood hev gone on normal. But here wuz the entire populashen uv the Corners at seven A. M., with throats like lime kilns, and nary a drop to be hed for love or money. The skeem wuz well considered and successful. The citizens cood hold out but fifteen minutes, and they surrendered.—They gave bonds to wich they all appended their marks to indemnify the Government for the back taxes, and compelled Bascom to take out license. This done, the nigger, who wuz backt up by Bigler and Pollock, opened his doors and the multitood surged in and wuz satisfied. To think uv a nigger holden the destinies uv the Corners in his hands!

Ez a matter uv course, Elder Pennibacker will follow next; indeed, he wants to resign now, for, sez he, "with the Assessorship in hostile hands uv wat avail is it to be Collector?" And then, how long will my head stay on my shoulders? Is a nigger to take my place! Already Bascom hez raised his price to 10 cents per drink, and notified me that likker from this time out is cash, and already hez Pennibacker and McPelter refoosed to lend me a cent! My Kingdom is crumblin. The steckshen uv Grant wuz the wedge wich is riven em from stem to stern. I shel be compelled to go hents a broken man. Good Hevings, why coodn't I hev died while Johnson wuz still President.

The blindness uv this present Administrashen is trooly astonishen. Things wuz settlin rapidly at the Corners. McPelter wuz becomin pacified and Deekin Pennibacker likewise. They wuz not satisfied with the Government, or did they approve uv anything it did, but they were pasive. Now the old sores is opened. Now McPelter is breathing slaughter, and is for lettin slip the dogs uv war. And what hez Grant got in return? Why, a nigger who wuz already bizzen, and the two whites at the Corners who voted for him last fall and will agin, anyhow. General Grant evidently don't mean to pacify us—he ain't on the soothe, nor hez he a clear idea uv wat is needed to conciliate. I shel go next.—There is to be a meetin held next week to protest agin these changes, but it won't avail nothin. We are all marked.

MANHOOD.—IN THE YOUNG AND RISING generation, the vegetative powers of life are strong, but in a few years how often the pallid hue, the lackluster eye and emaciated form, and the impossibility of application to mental effort, show its baneful influence. It soon becomes evident to the observer that some depraving influence is checking the development of the body. Consumption is talked of, and perhaps the youth is removed from school and sent into the country. This is one of the worst movements. Removed from ordinary direction of the ever-changing scenes of the city, the powers of the body too much concelled to give rein to healthful and rural exercise, thoughts are turned inwards upon themselves.

If the patient be a female, the approach of the menses is looked for with anxiety, as the first symptom on which Nature is to show her saving power in diffusing the circulation and visiting the cheek with the bloom of health. Alas! increase of appetite has come by that it fed on the energies of the system are prostrated and the whole economy is deranged. The beautiful and wonderful period in which body and mind undergo so fascinating a change from child to woman, is looked for in vain; the parent's heart bleeds in anxiety, and fancies the grave but waiting for its victim.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU, for Weakness arising from excesses or early indiscretion, attended with the following symptoms: Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Loss of Memory, Difficulty of Breathing, General Weakness, Horror of Disease, Weak Nerves, Cold Feet, Weak Fulness, Dimness of Vision, Languid Countenance and Eruptions on the Face, Pain in the Back, Heaviness of the Eyelids, Frequently Black Spots Flying before the Eyes, with Temporary Suffusion and Loss of Sight, Want of Attention, Great Nervousness, Debility, Horror of Society, Nothing is more desirable to such patients than Solitude, and nothing they more dread, for Fear of Disturbance, no Repose of Manner, no Earnestness, no Speculation, but a hurried Transition from one question to another.

These symptoms, if allowed to go on—which this Medicine invariably removes—soon follow Loss of Power, Futurity, and Epileptic Fits, in one of which the patient may expire.

During the Superintendence of Dr. Wilson at the Bloomingdale Asylum, this sad result occurred to two patients; reason had for a time left them, and both died of epilepsy. They were of both sexes, and about twenty years of age.

Who can say that these excesses are not frequently followed by those direful diseases Insanity and Consumption? The records of the Insane Asylums, and the melancholy deaths by Consumption, bear ample witness to the truth of these assertions. In Lunatic Asylums the most melancholy exhibition appears. The countenance is actually sodden and quite destitute—neither Mirth or Grief ever visited. Should a sound of

A. WINTER in the last Compiler adds his name to the list of candidates for the office of Clerk of the Courts.

DON'T FORGET—The meeting of Creditors and Bondholders of the Gettysburg Railroad Company, to-morrow, at 1 o'clock, P. M., in the Arbitration Room.

NEW GAME LAW.—We give in full on our first page, the Game law passed by the Legislature. Our sportsmen would do well to consult its provisions.

THE CIRCUS.—Tuesday last, being a clear day, brought to town a large crowd to see Bryan's Circus and Menagerie.—Everything passed off quietly.

DIVIDEND.—The First National Bank of Gettysburg has declared a semi-anual dividend of 4½ per cent., payable on the 10 inst., and the Gettysburg National Bank 6 per cent.

ZOUAVES.—The Franklin Zouaves will meet in New Oxford to-morrow, (Saturday,) at 9 A. M. for drill and parade. The train will leave Gettysburg at 8.15 A. M.

SHEEP KILLED.—We understand that a number of valuable Sheep have been killed recently by dogs in Menallen township, A. Hoffman, Jr., being one of the heaviest losers.

TOWNSHIP ACCOUNTS.—A law was passed by the last Legislature requiring the publication of township receipts and expenditures in the newspapers. Township officers will please make a note thereof.

SUPREME COURT.—The Supreme Court met at Harrisburg on Monday.—The Adams county cases, five or six in number, will be argued after the Somerset and York cases are disposed of.

SAILED.—Rev. Dr. Schaff, for a number of years prominently indentified with the German Reformed church sailed for Europe on the 21st ult., as representative of the American Bible Society and the Evangelical Alliance at the May anniversaries in England.

ARREST.—A stranger giving his name as James McCall, and professing to hail from Baltimore, was arrested in this place last week for stealing a violin, several shirts, and other articles, at the Keystone Hotel, and committed to jail for trial at the August term.

Finding a "first class" local on Bryan's Menagerie and Circus in the Chambersburg Valley Spirit, it was "clipped" last week for transfer to our columns with a neglect to credit our neighbor.—Our readers will therefore understand that the local aforesaid is due to the talent, tact and energy of our enterprising neighbor.

THE SPRINGS RAILROAD.—The construction of the Passenger Railroad, to connect the town with the Katalysine Spring, is a fixed fact. On Monday the Company contracted with Dr. G. D. Smith, who commenced work on Wednesday, and obligates himself to have the road graded, ties laid, &c., ready for the rails, within 40 days; and Dr. Smith is the man to do what he undertakes.

COLD.—The warm, pleasant weather of last week was succeeded on Sunday by a heavy storm—a regular old fashioned north-caster. Monday and Tuesday were blustery and cold, requiring comfortable fires. Our exchanges speak of hail and snow in various places, and more or less damage to fruit buds. We have not heard of essential injury to the fruit here, the high winds preventing frost thus far.

UNEXPECTED DEATH.—Mr. Henry Sharah, a well known citizen of Buchanan Valley, this county, died very unexpectedly on the 26th ult. He felt unwell on Satraday, and sent for a physician on Sunday. A neighbor sat up with him on Sunday night, and on Monday morning, as his daughter approached the bed and spoke to him, she was shocked by the discovery that her father was dead. Death came so quietly as not even to arrest the attention of the attendant. His age was about 48 years.—Compiler.

The Mercersburg Journal is urging upon the "Borough Fathers" of that place sundry reforms, including the following, which might be deserving of attention in these parts:

All collections of boys, idlers, loafers and rowdies, who obstruct the street corners, make obscene remarks of ladies who are at times compelled to force their way through them, and who make night hideous with their howlings, should be attended to.—This thing has become a nuisance and we call upon the proper officer—our Borough Constable—to abate it at once and effectually.

PERSONAL.—We clip the following paragraph from the New York Nation of April 15th last:

"Mr. Edward McPherson Clerk of the House of Representatives, is preparing a Political Manual for 1869." In continuation of his invaluble services. It will not appear before August or September, but will be strictly up to date. Mr. McPherson's history, it has been said, is devoted to a life of the late Thaddeus Stevens."

We may add, that in addition to the Political Manual and Life of Mr. Stevens, referred to in the above paragraph, our colleague is also at present engaged in revising the sheets of the Almanak de Gotha, for the current year, relating to the United States.

EXCURSION TRAIN.—We have already noticed that a Concert of Vocal and Instrumental Music will be given in Hanover on Tuesday evening next by the College Church Choir of this place, assisted by other ladies and gentlemen. Our Hanover friends may expect a musical treat. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Sabbath School of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Hanover. An Excursion Train has been arranged to leave Gettysburg on Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock, returning after the Concert.—Tickets, of which but a limited number will be issued, can be had at the Bookstore of A. D. BUEHLER.—price $1.00, including admission to the Concert.

NEW POSTMASTER.—Mr. KITZMILLER, the new Postmaster at this place, having received his commission, took charge of the office on Wednesday. For the present the office will remain at the old place. Mr. Kitzmiller will retain the present efficient clerk, Mr. WM. S. McCREARY, whose thorough acquaintance with the details of the office and accommodating disposition have made him a popular and acceptable officer. The retiring Postmaster takes this occasion to tender his acknowledgments to the public for the general expression of satisfaction with the administration of the office during the last eight years, and to say that much of this is due to his efficient Assistant, Mr. McCREARY—than whom it would be hard to scare up a better Postoffice official anywhere.

SPRINGS HOTEL.—This mammoth Hotel, under the energetic superintendence of Dr. Smith, is rapidly approaching completion. Dr. Smith has nearly a hundred hands engaged on the building, including Carpenters, Plasterers, Painters, &c. Although his contract calls for completion by the 20th of June, he expects to have it ready for furnishing by the 1st. It is a mammoth building and its rapid erection is due to the remarkable energy and executive capacity of the contractor. Gas and Water pipes have been put through the building, it being the intention of the Company to extend the gas mains from town, and have the buildings and grounds lighted with gas manufactured by the Gettysburg Gas Company. Dr. Smith is putting a handsome Observatory on the building, which will give a commanding view of the surrounding country.

HOW TO MANAGE THE VELOCIPEDE.—Velocipede has become the mania of the day. Having carried the large cities by storm, it is now finding its way to the interior and in all our exchanges we read of velocipedes, bicycles, &c. Base Ball and other athletic games and amusements must for the present go under. The institution has become established in Gettysburg, as elsewhere. As it is understood that Velocipedism will be put on the schedule of Premiums at the next Agricultural Fair, we presume our young men will go into training at once. As the disease has become so prevalent and is likely to continue to spread, we present a few rules for the benefit of amateurs in the management of the machines:

RULE 1.—After you have made up your mind that you were born for a little faster gait than horse cars can get up, or your ordinary pedal locomotion willingly admits of, the first thing to do is to buy a velocipede, and if you wish to show your grace and dexterity, be sure and invest in a velocipede.

RULE 2.—Avoid all liquids which tend to unsteadiness, divide your pennies so that an equal number shall occupy each pocket. Place your hat squarely upon your head (it might be well to carry a spirit level, the better to accomplish this,)—Either leave your watch with your uncle or buy another for your other vest pocket, in order that the weight of one may not throw you out of balance. Also, avoid tobacco, unless you place a quid in either cheek, and be sure your cigar be held in the centre of your mouth; also part your hair in the middle.

RULE 3.—Mount your machine. If you don't succeed at first, try again; it's good exercise for a beginner. In this connection it might be well to suggest that the learner get himself upholstered. The limbs may not work as freely, but it saves the skin.

RULE 4.—Balance yourself. This may seem a trifle difficult at first, but it requires quite many after you learn how.—Rule second will now come into actual use, and if it has been honestly complied with, you will probably be able to balance yourself handsomely until gravitation takes a hand in. If this well known law should attempt to spoil your pleasure, change your tactics and look out for breakers. If you are practicing in the presence of ladies, or even a promiscuous company, act as graceful as possible. If you tumble over, repeat it, smilingly. Never get red in the face. It is apt to be taken advantage of by the spectators, who think such things funny.

RULE 5.—After having acquired the art of balancing yourself, raise your feet to the cranks and push out. The faster you push out, the better, provided you keep at it. Don't stop unless you come in contact with something you cannot surmount, in which case you still maintain your seat and your upright, back out with all the race you possess. Never allow your bicycle to get on top of you; it learns it and tricks, besides being bad for the projecting angles of your anatomy.

RULE 6.—When you conclude you have mastered the above lesson in a straight line, try your hand at a curve. These curves should be as long as possible at first, since a new rider is very apt to obey the laws of motion and continue to move in a straight line after the machine is turned in a circular one. This is regarded by most people as a split. Don't lose your way in so doing by your curve until you have described a circle, and when you find yourself in the ring, seize to it until you are satisfied; it don't take long.

RULE 7.—After having learned all sorts of forward motions, if you are desirous of putting on a few more emotional thrills, try the back ward motion. Don't be under any dent of assimilating anybody but yourself by this movement; it requires something more than cheek to make it a success. You will find your bicycle inclined to lay down. This must be guarded against, since it takes the poetry all out of the motion, and is not exactly what might be called a triumph of genius.

RULE 8.—Never attempt any extra frills until you are sure of making the point intended. Never attempt to use your body on an inclined plane, and stand on the saddle when near the top; gravitation is still in active operation. And, finally, when you have mastered your machine, and feel thoroughly you can beat anything on wheels, don't undertake to keep ahead of an express train, on the same track, there is some speed you may not know, and it might happen to overtake you, it might scratch some of the paint from your bicycle, and make it look bad.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT.—The Triennial Convention of School Directors met in the Court-house on Tuesday last, and was organized by appointing FREDERICK DIEHL President, Gen. W. W. STEWART and MICHAEL C. BLOSSER Secretaries. Upon calling the roll eighty-eight Directors answered. The roll, as prepared by Mr. SHELLY, County Superintendent, did not contain the names of the Directors from York Springs Borough, but the Convention, after discussion, ordered the names to be entered. The Salary of the County Superintendent for the next three years was fixed at $800. The Convention then proceeded to vote viva voce for County Superintendent, resulting in the election of Mr. J. HOWARD WERT, who received 48 votes to 38 for AARON SHELLY, the present Superintendent. Mr. Wert is at present Principal of the High School in this place, is a graduate of Pennsylvania College, is a live educator and will no doubt make an efficient officer.

SPRING ELECTIONS ABOLISHED.—The 15th Section of the new Registry law, passed by the last Legislature, provides that hereafter all elections for city, ward, borough, township, and election officers, shall be held on the second Tuesday of October, subject to all the provisions of the laws regulating the election of such officers not inconsistent with this act; the persons elected to such offices at that time shall take their places at the expiration of the terms of the persons holding the same at the time of such election; but no election for the office of assessor or assistant assessor shall be held under this act, until the year one thousand eight hundred and seventy. This will save the expense and trouble of double elections, and secure a fuller expression of the popular will in the choice of municipal and township officers, as the October elections usually draw out a full vote.

INSANE ASYLUM.—Dr. Curwen, Superintendent of the Insane Asylum at Harrisburg, calls attention to the following section of a law passed by the last Legislature in regard to the admission of patients into the institution. It does not apply to persons in the charge of Directors or Overseers of the Poor:

"That insane persons may be placed in the hospital for the insane by their legal guardians, or by their relatives or friends in case they have no guardians, but never without the certificate of two or more reputable physicians, after a personal examination, made within one week of the date thereof, and this certificate to be duly acknowledged and sworn to or affirmed before some magistrate or judicial officer, who shall certify to the genuineness of the signature and to the respectability of the signers."

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The noon train on the Gettysburg Railroad was detained on Tuesday last, by an accident at Hann's Station, which might have been serious. The switch at that station was either open or not properly adjusted, causing the train to run off the track.—Fortunately the speed had been slacked, and nothing serious ensued, beyond wounding bumps and bruises to passengers and a delay of some hours in getting to town.

A MAD DOG LOOSE IN THE STREET.—Could not create more excitement than does the fact that D. W. ROBISON is selling GROVER AND BAKER'S 1st Premium Family Sewing Machines at $12.00 cash balance in Monthly payments of $5.00 without interest. Machines will be sold on these terms for one month only. Call and leave your names at the office, Chambersburg St., 1st Square. May 7—1t

NEW COOKING STOVE.—The attention of Housekeepers is invited to the EXCELSIOR PENN COOK STOVE, which has recently been brought into the market, and bids fair to throw all other Stoves into the shade. This Stove took the first premium at the State Fair held in Harrisburg last fall. Among its peculiar merits are the large Oven and Flues, and general simplicity, not being encumbered with unnecessary appendages, which in many stoves only enhance the cost without being of practical use. For beauty of design, quality of material, and general excellence, it cannot be excelled. The price is lower than any other first-class Cook Stove in market, and yet is warranted to cook and bake equal to the best. The Excelsior Penn Cook can be seen at the Wareroom of Col. C. H. BUEHLER, on Carlisle street, Gettysburg, who is the Agent for this place. Call and see it. tf

Also, Chewing Tobacco of all kinds—Meerschaum Pipes, and all the articles desired by persons addicted to the use of the weed. He manufactures Segars largely, and is prepared to fill all orders promptly, and at lowest rates, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL. Address W. Bierbower, Gettysburg, Pa. tf

Buehler, on Carlisle street, opposite the Passenger Depot. River and Mountain Pine, Hemlock, Laths, Siding, Joice, Scantling, Shingles, Pickets, Flooring, Posts, &c. &c., furnished in any quantity and at lowest rates. tf

MARVELOUS INDUSTRY.—It is scarcely necessary at this day to say anything in praise of Webster's Unabridged Quarto Dictionary, 1840 pages, and 3000 engravings. Having come into possession of a copy of the latest edition, we cannot refrain from expressing our admiration at the marvelous industry and learning which such a book must have called into demand. In the book line, this Dictionary deserves a place amongst the triumphs of the century. The publishers' part of this ponderous volume has been done with a beauty and accuratiainess which also deserves special commendation. "Reading the Dictionary," with this edition of Webster before you, is exceedingly interesting pastime. A copy of it must certainly be considered to belong to the appointments of every intelligent family. Its cost is $12, but it is cheap at that price. —Moravian. 1t

"FIRST IN WAR, FIRST IN PEACE, AND FIRST IN THE HEARTS OF THE COUNTRYMEN."—That's not G. Washington, for he's dead. But it is Oak Hall, the big Clothing House at Sixth and Market Sts., Philada. In war times it took strong hold upon the affections of the people, because it kept as near as possible to old war prices; and in peace it increases its popularity by the excellence and ever increasing cheapness of its clothing; but it is entroned in the hearts of the "countrymen" because country trade is its specialty. 1t

The human family is so numerous that a birth and a death occur every moment. Every second a child is born; every second some one dies. The prevalence of sickness in the world may be realized in Dr. J. C. Ayer's Laboratory, where medicines are made for all mankind. It would scarcely seem that there are throats enough to swallow the doses he issues daily,—Ayre's Sarsaprilla, Ague Cure, and Cherry Pectoral by the thousand gallons and Ayre's Pills literally by the ton. But they must all be wanted, or he could not make such quantities for so many years.—[Northfield Telegraph. 1t

HIS STYLE.—The Erie Dispatch tells this of a young son of Erie who imbibes: A young fellow respectably connected and well known here, used to get drunk very frequently. Shortly before Brown's hotel was closed he was, one day, as usual, under the influence of benzine, and stumbled at the head of the stairs leading from the landing to the front door. Down he came heels over head, bumping from step to step, until he was landed in a rather promiscuous looking heap. A stranger who was just entering the hotel, thinking the fellow had sustained serious if not mortal injury, ran to pick him up, but the drunken man majestically waved him off, staggering to his feet, and in response to the proffered assistance, roared out; "Now you jes lemme 'lone. Want no slob'rin round me. I allus come down stairs that way."

DR. Benjamin Ayer, the member of the Georgia Legislature, who was lately murdered by the roadside, near Louisville, in that State, was a native of Pennsylvania and a graduate of the Philadelphia Medical College; for 40 years he had lived in South Carolina and Georgia. He was the only white man in his county, it is said, who had the courage to vote for Grant.

MAYOR BANKS and the members of the City Council of Baltimore were to start on a tour of inspection over the Western Maryland Railroad yesterday (Thursday) morning, as far as Hagerstown, to satisfy themselves of the wisdom of furnishing a million of dollars to complete that work to Hagerstown and Williamsport.

DR. BROWN-SEQUARD reports a curious case of a dog which has just died having fresh blood passed into the carotid. The dead animal was revived, stood on his feet, wagged his tail, lived over twelve hours when he died again.

THE OLD PENNSYLVANIA FARMER.

BY BAYARD TAYLOR.

Well—well! this is a comfort, now—the air is mild as may,
And yet 'tis March the twentieth, or twenty-first, to-day;
And Reuben ploughs the hill for corn; I thought it would be tough,
But now I see the furrows turned, I guess it's dry enough.

I don't half live, penned up in doors; a stove's not like the sun.
When I can't see how things go on, I fear they're badly done:
I might have farmed till now, I think—one's family is so queer—
As if a man can't oversee who's in his eighteenth year!

Father, I mind, was eighty-five before he gave up his;
But he was dim o' sight, and crippled with the rheumatiz.
I followed in the old, steady way, so he was satisfied;
But Reuben likes new-fangled things and ways I can't abide.

I'm glad I built this southern porch; my chair seems easy here;
I haven't seen as fine a spring this five and twenty year!
And now time goes round so quick!—a week, I would have sworn,
Since they were husking on the flat, and now they plough for corn!

When I was young, time had for me a lazy ox's pace,
But now it's like a blooded horse, that means to win the race.
And yet I can't fill out my days, I tire myself with naught;
I'd rather use my legs and hands than plague my head with thought.

There's Marshall, too, I see from here; he and his boys begin:
Why don't they take the lower field? that one is poor and thin.
A coat of lime it ought to have, but they're a doless set:
They think swamp-mud's as good, but we shall see what corn they get!

Across the level, Brown's new place begins to make a show;
I thought he'd have to wait for trees, but, bless me, how they grow!
They say it's fine—two acres filled with evergreens and things;
But so much land! it worries me, for not a cent it brings.

He has the right, I don't deny, to please himself that way,
But 'tis a bad example set, and leads young folks astray;
Book-learning gets the upper hand and work gets slow and slack,
And they that come long after us will find things gone to rack.

Now Reuben's on the hither side—his team comes back again;
I know how deep he sets the share, I see the horses strain:
I had that field so clean of stones, but he must plow so deep,
He'll have it like the turnpike soon, and scarcely fit for sheep.

If father lived, I'd like to know what he would say to these
New notions of the youngest men, who farm by chemistries;
There's different stock and other grass; there's patent plough and cart—
Five hundred dollars for a bull; it would have broke his heart.

The maples must be putting out; I see a something red
Down yonder where the clearing laps across the meadow's head.
Swamp-cabbage grows beside the run; the green is good to see,
But wheat's the color, after all, that cheers and livens me.

They think I have an easy time, no need to worry now—
Sit in the porch all day and watch them mow, and sow, and plow;
Sleep in the summer in the shade, in winter in the sun—
I'd rather do the thing myself, and know just how it's done!

Well—I suppose I'm old, and yet 'tis not so long ago
When Reuben spread the swath to dry, and Jesse learned to mow,
And William raked, and Isreal hoed, and Joseph pitched with me:
But such a man as I was then, my boys will never be:

I don't mind William's hankering for lectures and for books;
He never had a farming knack—you'd see it in his looks:
But handsome is that handsome does, and he is well to do;
I would lose my mind if I could say the same of Jesse, too.

There's one black sheep in every flock, so there must be in mine,
But I was wrong that second time his bond to undersign;
It's less than what his share will be—but there's the interest;
In ten years more I might have had two thousand to invest.

There's no use thinking of it now, and yet it makes me sore:
The way I've slaved and saved, I ought to count a little more.
I never lost a foot of land, and that's a comfort sure,
And if they do not call me rich, they cannot call me poor.

Well, well: ten thousand times I've thought the things I'm thinking now;
I've thought them in the harvest field and in the clover-mow;
And sometimes I get tired of them, and wish I'd something new—
But this is all I've seen and know; so what's a man to do?

'Tis like my time is nearly out; of that I'm not afraid;
I never cheated any man and all my debts are paid.
They call it rest when we shall have; but work would do no harm;
There can't be rivers there, and fields, without some sort of farm!

—Hearth and Home.

DOES CLOVER OR TIMOTHY CAUSE RUST ON WHEAT.—Upon this subject a correspondent of the Rural Gentleman says:

This is a question that has for a long time agitated the minds of intelligent farmers, but has been settled to my mind, at least, by a series of experiments. I am satisfied that it does in at least ninety-five cases out of a hundred.

I have sown the wheat with and without the grass seed, and have never seen rust when there was no grass, whilst in the same field the rust has affected the wheat. The grass holds the dampness at the roots of the wheat, and when the sun shines out very warm, produces the blight. Besides, the wheat standing alone will produce five bushels more to the acre than when the grass is sown. I mean, now, that this will be the average difference.

But the question arises: When shall grass be sown? I answer: After the wheat harvest. Plow the field and prepare it smoothly and sow the grass seeds of whatever kind you desire, and your crop of grass the coming season will be equally as good if not better than if sown with the wheat.

Farmers, try the above, and my word for it, the result will be satisfactory.
